DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 4/9/08 has been entered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claims 1-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Kauffman et al., U.S./5,780,891.

Re claim 1, Kauffman et al. disclose a flash memory device, which comprises [The transitional term "comprising", which is synonymous with "including," "containing," or "characterized by," is inclusive or open-ended and does not exclude additional, unrecited elements] a substrate¹⁰ (fig. 3; col. 3, lines 45-47); a plurality of core stacks (i.e., figs. 6-8), wherein each core stack comprises a tunnel oxide layer 12 on the substrate (fig. 3; col. 3, lines 50-55); a first polysilicon layer 18 (fig. 3; col. 3, line 55) on the tunnel oxide layer; an anti-reflective interpoly layer 22 (fig. 3 and col. 4, lines 1-5 and col. 2; i.e., silicon oxynitride is the anti-reflective material, this is the intrinsic properties of the material) atop and in contact with (see abstract section, without using the bottom oxide layer 20) the first polysilicon layer; and a transmissive second polysilicon layer 26 (fig. 5 and col. 4, lines 27-50) on the anti-reflective interpoly layer; a plurality of source regions 36 (fig. 6) adjacent to the plurality of core stacks; and a plurality of drain regions 38 (fig. 6) adjacent to the plurality of core stacks, see figs. 1-8 and cols. 1-6 for more details.

Re claims 5 and 8, wherein the anti-reflective interpoly layer is made of silicon oxynitride (SiON), see fig. 3 and col. 4, lines 1-5 and col. 2.

Re claims 6 and 9, wherein the thickness of the antireflective interpoly layer is about 300 angstroms, see col. 4, lines 1-5.

In regards to claims 2-4 and 7, the process limitation of how the source and drain regions are formed has no patentable weight in claim drawn to structure. Note that a product by process claim is directed to the product per se, no matter how actually made, In re Hirao, 190 USPQ 15 at 17 (footnote 3). See also In re Brown, 173 USPQ 685; In re Luck, 177 USPQ 523; In re Fessmann, 180 USPQ 324; In re Avery, 186 USPQ 161; In re Wertheim, 191 USPQ 90 (209 USPQ 554 does not deal with this issue); and In re Marosi et al, 218 USPQ 289, all of which make it clear that it is the patentability of the final product per se which must be determined in a product by process claim, and not the patentability of the process, and that an old or obvious product by a new method is not patentable as a product, whether claimed in product by process claims or not. Note that applicant has the burden of proof in such cases, as the above caselaw makes clear.

Therefore, the recited phrases in claims 2-4 and 7 are thus non-limiting.
